

SAMARITAN HOUSE VETERANS PROGRAMS

Veterans experiencing homelessness are often dealing with more than just the loss of housing. Many are navigating mental health challenges, substance use, chronic health conditions or long periods of instability that make it hard to know where to turn or to ask for help.

Samaritan House Veterans Programs in Denver, Fort Collins and Greeley are designed to meet Veterans where they are and provide a safe, supportive place to begin rebuilding stability and confidence.

Samaritan House offers more than a bed for the night. Veterans receive extended stay shelter paired with hands-on, wraparound support that helps address the real-life barriers standing in the way of permanent housing. As a trusted partner to the VA and local homelessness response systems, Catholic Charities provides Service Intensive Transitional Housing and Clinical Treatment programs that combine shelter, clinical care and practical support in one coordinated approach.

From the first day, Veterans work with a consistent team that includes licensed clinicians and dedicated case managers. Together, they identify immediate needs, set realistic goals and create a plan that supports housing stability, health, recovery, employment and income. Regular check-ins, ongoing clinical support, and person-centered planning help Veterans stay engaged and make progress at a pace that works for them.

Employment and income stability are treated as key parts of long-term success. Veterans have access to onsite employment support, including help with resumes, interview preparation and job placement. These services build confidence and independence alongside progress toward housing.

Support at Samaritan House is truly wraparound. Veterans receive three meals a day, help accessing benefits and community resources, opportunities for peer connection and community activities, and structured programming focused on wellness and recovery. Support does not end when a Veteran leaves the program. Aftercare services help ensure Veterans remain connected to resources and guidance as they move into permanent housing.

Who This Is For

This program is for Veterans who are unhoused and need more support than short-term shelter alone can provide. It is especially helpful for Veterans dealing with mental health concerns, substance use challenges, medical issues or long-term instability, as well as for those who may not feel ready for permanent housing yet but want help getting there.

It is also for family members, friends, outreach workers and community partners who are worried about a Veteran and want to connect them to a safe, respectful place where they will be supported, not judged.

Why It Matters Now

Veterans experiencing homelessness deserve programs designed for the realities they face today. Samaritan House Veterans Programs provide the stability, clinical care and intensive support necessary to move Veterans from crisis to long-term housing success. Renewed awareness, outreach and community engagement are essential to ensure Veterans know help is available and no one is left behind.
